foreword

Out of a dark labyrinth a child gropes with his tiny, searching, inexperienced hand. He touches the hand of his teacher, and under the guidance of the more experienced one of the teacher, he begins to grow toward wisdom and maturity. As he becomes aware of the joys that learning brings, he may in turn reach out to guide a small, searching hand which needs his wisdom and experience.

DR. W. GLENN KILLINGER

dedication

In every age capable leaders are needed to guide and to inspire youth. West Chester is fortunate to have as a member of its professional staff Dr. W. Glenn Killinger, who has been a source of inspiration to many students. To some, he is an efficient and understanding dean of men. To others, he is a symbol of the brilliant record achieved by West Chester athletes during his twenty years of coaching at the College. To many others, Dr. Killinger represents honor, sportsmanship, enthusiasm, and above all, loyal friendship. To us, he represents that great combination of strength in mind and in body which opens doors to education and to success. To you, Dr. Killinger, we dedicate the 1958 Serpentine.

golden ram page

The perennial rain did not dim the success of the second annual Golden Ram Page Weekend, November first and second, sponsored by the combined campus organizations. Launching the round of events was a colorful parade which honored alumnus Harry Anderson and inspired the Golden Rams to a victory over Millersville. Climaxing the activities was a dance which featured Richard Maltby and his orchestra.

Jim Komarnicki picks up yardage with Herb Lee and John Fitzgerald leading interference.

The 1957 football team, one of the strongest ever assembled on Wayne Field, notched a perfect record of 9-0. Opponents offered little resistance to the West Chester powerhouse. Passing and running, the Rams led the nation in scoring midway through the season. After Fort Myer and King's College were downed 25-7 and 52-12, respectively, the team's offensive power was evident. This fact became certain when New Haven and Baldwin-Wallace were routed by scores of 47-7 and 39-7. West Chester was on its way to an undefeated season, the third in the last twenty years. A well-organized unit with speed and versatility, the squad performed in championship tradition and will go down in the annals of West Chester's greatest.

Fort Myer .....	25-7
King's College .....	52-12

The practice of going home on weekends was a carry-over from the freshman year.

Planning "An Affair to Remember" was a task made simpler . . .

. . . by advisers, Mrs. Haas and Mr. Gutscher, offering advice with a smile . . .

as juniors, the members of the class

. . . gained more charm,

and sophistication (P)

At the class picnic informality was the order of the day.

The parties following the White Supper were better than ever.

It was the year for fuding that certain someone.

An energetic committee helped the class to plan the unforgettable "Coral Cotillion." Seated, left to right: G. Kilgore, F. Lisetski, C. Harris, M. J. Kling. Standing: J. DeWald, B. Haws, G. Penrod.

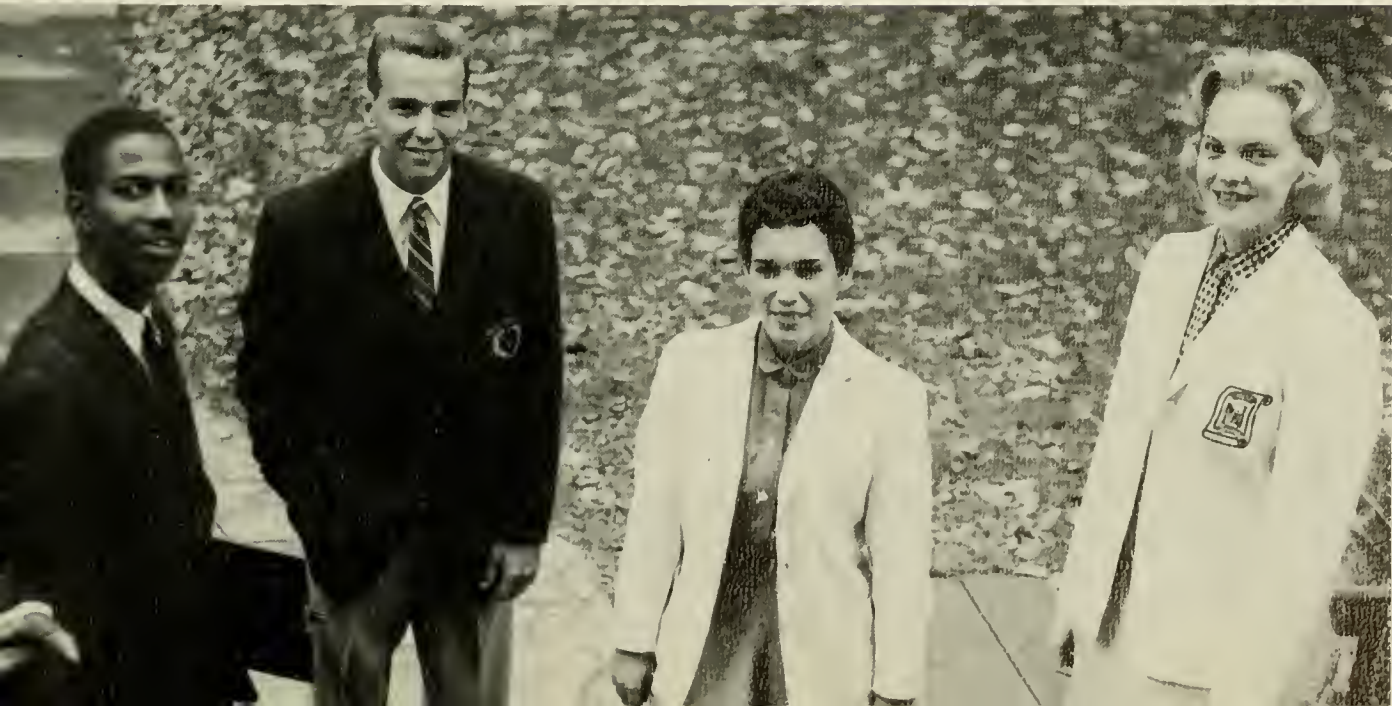

In traditional style, nine lovely girls were nominated as candidates for Junior Prom Queen.

The class advisers, Dr. Bonder and Mrs. Bliss, were still smiling, still planning.

The anticipation of the last phase of "A Class in Transition" is portrayed by the class officers who are always "looking up". Left to right: J. Williams, Treasurer; J. Harrington, President; L. Chandlee, Secretary; C. Harris, Vice president.
